

WE ARE HIRING

Part-qualified Patent Attorney, IT & Electronics

We're looking for a part-qualified patent attorney to join our IP firm; ideally someone who is keen to focus on AI technology.

We're a fast-growing IP firm, focusing mainly on patenting in software and electronics, with expertise in AI, robotics, cybersecurity and space technologies. Our clients are a mix of industry leaders in their respective fields and fast-grown start-ups – including three unicorn start-ups whom we've represented since incorporation – each with clever technology and exciting ideas that need protecting. This role covers the full gamut of work, including original drafting, prosecution of both direct client and associate work, as well as related work, such as opinions.

ABOUT YOU

- You're attracted by joining a fast-growing dynamic young firm where you'll be able to share your creative ideas and experience
- Part-qualified patent attorney (you have passed the pre-EQE and one final exam (either UK or EP) with physics, computer science, or engineering degree
- Strong analytical, problem-solving and communication skills
- We will cover reimbursement of employers' exam/training costs if required
- Previous experience with artificial intelligence, medical imaging, computer vision, cybersecurity, space tech and/or robotics would be beneficial

WHAT WE OFFER

- A refreshing, supportive and forward-thinking working environment, which is fully paperless, built from best practice
- A varied and interesting caseload, working with established clients to develop a comprehensive worldwide patent portfolio
- Relaxed, friendly and sociable work environment, whether you're based in our Windsor or London office
- Support from experienced attorneys that have active roles in the profession's qualifying exams and training
- We will also consider applications from those wishing to work part time
